

NTOU English FinalTerm Show-me-How TEST2

[OPENING]

Hey guys, good morning!

I wonder, how do you all kick-start your mornings?

Maybe a good stretch? A fruit sandwich? Or a giant bowl of cereal and milk?

For me? I usually jump-start my day with a coffee or a latte.

and paired with a B-complex, liver protection pills, and some multivitamins...

These are the real MVPs that get me through those 8 AM or 9 AM classes.

Without them, surviving on a class in a zombie-like haze is really a struggle!

[Introduction]

That's right!

Today, I'm going to show you exactly how "I" start my day!

First of all, let's brew a latte!

This is G7 instant black coffee from Vietnam, casually looted from my room.

Since one packet is pitifully small, I always double down and use two.

Next up, this is XX Milk, straight from the 7-Eleven next door.

What's that? You're asking why I chose this milk?

Do you think I carefully selected it? Or maybe it has a unique, heavenly taste?

Nope, none of the above. I just thought it looked nice, so I bought it.

[Coffee Time]

First, we dump the coffee powder into the cup,

pour in some fresh hot water from the water dispenser over there, and give it a good stir.

Next, we splash in our XX Milk.

And boom! The latte is ready to go!

[Eat Time]

Let's set our latte aside for a sec, because it's time for our "breakfast".

Here we have the Alinamin DX B-complex straight from Japan.

These are the multivitamins—you gotta pop all three colors together.

And finally, the Loforan liver capsule.

[Eat Them]

Once all those are down the hatch, we can finally drink the latte that we just made!

Thank you all! I hope you enjoyed my Show-Me-How!